Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, the Building Commission (commission) may enter into agreements and ancillary arrangements relating to public debt. This bill provides that, at the time of entering into the agreements or ancillary arrangements, or in anticipation thereof, the commission must determine, if applicable, whether the payment will be deposited into, and whether the payment will be made from, the bond security and redemption fund or the capital improvement fund.

The bill also establishes a number of conditions relating to interest exchange agreements. These include all of the following:

1. The commission must contract with an independent financial consulting firm to determine if the terms and conditions of the agreement reflect a fair market value, as of the proposed date of the execution of the agreement. Under the bill, the commission may not enter into an agreement unless it determines that the terms and conditions of the agreement reflect such a fair market value.

2. The total notional amounts that are contracted under the agreements may not exceed 20 percent of the sum of the state's outstanding public debt and operating notes.

3. No agreement may have a notional principal amount with a maturity exceeding the maturity of the public debt to which the agreement relates. The authorizing resolution for any agreement must identify the public debt to which the agreement relates.

4. The counterparty to an agreement must have a credit rating from a nationally recognized rating agency that is at least equal to the rating assigned the state by that nationally recognized rating agency on its public debt at the time that the commission enters into the agreement. In addition, every agreement must require that, if the credit rating of a counterparty is downgraded during the term of the agreement, the agreement must be collateralized for the remainder of the agreement or until such time that the credit rating of the counterparty is upgraded to at least the credit rating assigned the state by any nationally recognized credit rating agency on its public debt at the time that the commission entered into the agreement, whichever occurs first, with securities and on terms meeting such rating agency's criteria for the required rating assigned the counterparty at the time of entering into the agreement.

5. Before entering into any interest exchange agreement, the commission must establish guidelines relating to the conditions under which the commission may enter into the agreements; the methods by which the commission may solicit and procure the agreements; the form and content of the agreements; the aspects of risk exposure associated with the agreements; the standards and procedures for counterparty selection; the standards for the procurement of, and the setting aside of reserves in connection with, the agreements; the provisions for collateralization or other requirements for securing any counterparty's obligations under the agreements; the long-term financial implications of entering into the agreements; the methods to be used to provide an accounting for the agreements in any state financial statements; and a system for financial monitoring and periodic assessment of the agreements.

Finally, the bill requires the Department of Administration to issue a semiannual report that includes a description of each agreement, including a summary of its terms and conditions, rates, maturity, and the estimated market value of each agreement; an accounting of amounts that were required to be paid and received on each agreement; any credit enhancement, liquidity facility, or reserves, including an accounting of all such costs and expenses incurred by the state; a description of the counterparty to each agreement; and an assessment of the counterparty risk, the termination risk, and other risks associated with each agreement.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

I went ahead and prepared LRB 03-4353/3 as a 2005 legislative bill draft. If it is later decided that this draft will be included in the governor's budget bill, I will convert it to a budget draft. At this juncture, I simply wanted to get the draft to you for the purpose of review and to make certain that the policy decisions in the bill draft are still consistent with your intent. X
